IKE TO MEET WESTERN LEADERS

Steelworkers to Vote Tomorrow For President

Steelworkers from Monessen and across the nation and Canada will trek to the polls tomorrow to vote for top leadership in the United Steelworkers of America international union.

It will mark the first time in the 20-year history of USW that its president is being opposed for re-election.

The spotlight tomorrow will be on David J. McDonald, heir to the USW throne following the death of union founder Philip Murray in 1952. The silver-haired, smoke-piping president is being opposed for the international presidency by Donald C. Rarick, of McKeesport, a rank-and-file member.

The union's 1,200,000 members will also vote for international vice-president, secretary-treasurer, 30 USW directors and numerous international tellers.

Maurice Candidate

Eugene Maurice, of District 13, which includes locals in the Monessen district, has no opposition in his bid for reelection. An employe of the Pittsburgh Steel Co. plant at Monessen, Martin Brna, is one of the 10 millhands seeking three international teller positions.

Maurice told The Independent today he is hoping for a "100 per cent turnout" of District 13's some 36,000 members of 58 locals. Some observers believe the voting will be about 60 per cent of the total membership in District 13.

"Committee for Rarick" have blossomed out in many area steel plants. His supporters in Monessen last week passed out thousands of vote-for-Rarick buttons and literature. Stanley Sokol, a rod mill employe of Pittsburgh Steel Co. in Monessen, is chairman of the local Rarick drive.

Rarick jumped into national prominence last fall when he protested an increase in union dues from $3 to $5 a month. A $6,500 a year employe of U. S. Steel, Rarick has spent 19 of his 37 years in the union.

He has consistently regarded McDonald's handling of the USW as "autocratic." He also charged the union president "railroaded" the dues increase through an international convention in Los Angeles last September.

McDonald became secretary to Murray in 1923 before the USW's founding. He has accused Rarick

Jeannette Man Gets Suspended Sentence Today

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Joseph C. Collins, of Jeannette, Pa., was placed on a 15-year suspended sentence by Judge Edward G Bauer today after pleading guilty to burglary and larceny charges.

Collins was accused of stealing $103 while employed by Lincoln Motor Parks on Dec. 27, 1955 and with burglarizing the Joseph Senseris Smoke Shop in Jeannette on Sept. 24, 1956.

Donald Crouse, of Arnold, was sentenced to one day in the Westmoreland County jail after pleading guilty to driving while drunk in New Kensington last Oct. 20.

Judge Bauer fined James Dixon, New Kensington, $100 on a prowling charge and placed him on 5 years probation. Police said they arrested Dixon when he was discovered looking into a New Kensington home Oct. 27.

Judge John M. O'Connell, of Apollo RD 2, was fined $100 by Judge John M. O'Connell on a charge of driving while drunk in Vandergrift last Sept. 29.

Deny Rumors of Mine Development

A U. S. Steel Co. spokesman said today that the firm's coal division is seeking options on lands in the Hazel Kirk area, but denied rumors of a new mine development.

"This is merely a part of a continuing survey to acquire coal rights," the spokesman said. "There are no plans to open a new mine."

It was rumored over the weekend in the little village near Monongahela that a huge mine would soon go into the area as well as a large machine shop. Both rumors were firmly denied by U. S. Steel.

ANDERSON NAMED — President Eisenhower today nominated D. Malcolm Anderson, formerly of Donora, now of Pittsburgh, as U. S. Attorney for the Western District of Pennsylvania. Anderson has served in the job on a court appointment since 1955 when he succeeded John W. McIlvaine who was named as federal district judge. The formal nomination was sent to the Senate.

Elizabeth Taylor Suffers Spinal Ailment Again

NEW YORK (UP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor was taken off a plane from Mexico on a stretcher Sunday night and rushed to a New York hospital with an anxious Mike Todd at her side.

The actress, who had been honeymooning with Todd in Mexico, suffered a recurrence of the spinal injury that had kept her in the hospital for eight and one-half weeks prior to Jan. 21. She was taken to Harkness Pavilion at Columbia Presbyterian Hospital.

Todd, whom she married last week, said at the hospital, "Mrs Todd began to feel some pain in the spinal area" while on a plane trip from Acapulco, Mexico, to Mexico City on Saturday. He said the ride was "quite rough."

"Rather than stop at some Mexican hospital," Todd said, "we continued on here where the doctors would be familiar with her case."

He added that she is resting "quite comfortably."

State to Study Relocation Request

Norbert G. Bell, state highways engineer, Uniontown district, will make a study of a request by several municipal and industrial groups to relocate Route 88 as a low level road between West Brownsville and Roscoe.

It is reported that Secretary of Highways Joseph Lawler has shown interest in the request and has asked Bell to make a study.

Relocation of the highway is being sought so that a newly developed industrial site near California will be more accessible to highway traffic.

GOP Tax Package Is Calling for Retention Of State Sales Levy

HARRISBURG (UP) — The General Assembly today was expected to receive a Republican-sponsored tax package to raise almost $200,000,000 in additional money through retention of the 3 per cent sales tax and other tax measures now on the books.

An informal agreement on ways and means to balance Gov. George M. Leader's $1,604,000,000 General Fund budget was reached Sunday night at a conference of GOP legislative leaders and Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom.

House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson (R-McKean) said the recommendations of the conferees will be presented to the 126-member GOP majority in that chamber at a caucus today and then appear in the form of bills.

The package calls for continuing the sales tax at the 3 per cent rate instead of allowing it to drop automatically to 2 per cent next June 1 under existing law. That would yield an additional $144,500,000 during the two-year fiscal period and an overall return of $473,000,000.

Others Proposed

These present taxes would also be continued under the Republican plan:

1. The 6 per cent corporate net income tax, $314,000,000, or $26,000,000 more over the current fiscal period.

2. The 1 per cent real estate transfer tax $41,500,000, or $700,000 additional.

3. The six mill tax on gross receipts of public utilities, $32,000,000, or about $1,000,000 more.

4 The one cent per pack "flood relief" tax on cigarets, with its estimated $22,000,000 revenue going into the General Fund for the 1957-59 biennium.

Johnson said the leadership also tentatively agreed that the long-postponed exemption for manufacturers from the five-mill capital stock tax should go into effect as scheduled Jan. 1. That would cut revenues by about $43,000,000.

Gov. George M. Leader recommended in his recent budget message that $108,613,231 in additional revenue be raised to pay for increased costs of government and to wipe out an estimated $82,000,000 deficit facing his administration May 31.

Republican leaders offered the program following their announced intention to "hold the line" against imposition of any new taxes.

In other developments, a special legislative committee will be set up this week to investigate the activities of the state Pardon's Board, centering on the handling of the controversial David Darcy case.

The death sentences of Darcy and two companions, Harold Foster and Harry Zeitz were commuted to life imprisonment last September to climax an eight-year legal fight through the courts. They were convicted of killing William Kelly, a bystander, during a holdup at the Feasterville Inn in Bucks County in 1947.

The Senate will reconvene at 3 p.m. and the House at 4:30 p.m. today.

Stolen Auto Is Found Hours Later

A car stolen on Donner avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets, Monessen, yesterday afternoon was found about 16 hours later on Highland avenue, local police reported today.

Tony Trozzo, of 608 Division street, the owner, said the car had almost a full tank of gas when it was stolen. There was only about a quarter of a tank left when the machine was recovered.

Limit on Loans Is Signed by President

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (UP) — President Eisenhower today signed legislation raising the limit on outstanding loans by the Small Business Administration.

The bill (S636) raises from $150 million to $230 million the maximum limit on dollar volume of loans made by the government agency outstanding at any one time.

TO U.S.A of A. LOCAL 1229 — Tomorrow support, with your powerful influence "Rarick for President" and do not vote for the one who pushed you in the water. Give the hand to Rarick. He is the one who is going to pull you out of the water. Be loyal. Repeat to everyone, vote for right candidate "Rarick". Yours most cordially, N. A. Galvan.

Maxwell Proposes Horse Race Vote; State Lottery

In one of three bills he introduced to the State Legislature last week, Rep. H. J. Maxwell, of Monessen, representing the Westmoreland County Third Legislative District, called for a referendum on horse racing in Pennsylvania.

Another bill called for the setting up of a state lottery to raise revenue for cancer research.

His third bill seeks to increase the state police force from 1,900 to 2,000.

Maxwell's proposed bill to vote on horse racing probably will cause a stir in ministerial circles throughout the state. Similar bills have been presented in both the senate and legislature many times in the past decade but each time they were shelved because of heavy opposition by the clergy.

Maxwell was unavailable for comment on details of his proposed bills.

Rubber Workers Union Agrees to Master Contract

DAYTON, O. (UP)—The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. and United Rubber Workers Union agreed to a master contract Sunday covering 24,000 hourly employes at 11 plants.

The pact climaxed 25 days of negotiations and came just eight hours before the old contract expired.

Terms of the contract, which did not involve wage levels, included a more liberal vacation program, inclusion in company-wide bargaining of an industrial products plant at North Chicago, Ill., increased night differential and other benefits.

The contract is subject to approval of the RW's International Executive Board and ratification by local unions.

Goodyear plants covered by the contract are at Akron, and St Marys, Ohio; Gadsden, Ala.; Jackson Mich.; Muncie, Ind.; Lincoln, Nebr.; Windsor, Vt.; New Bedford Mass.; Topeka, Kan.; North Chicago, Ill., and Los Angeles, Calif.

Representatives of the 11 plants and the URW locals must negotiate the ratify local supplemental agreement before the contract can become effective. It runs until April 15, 1959.

Frog Tadpoles May Help in Cancer Research

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The American Cancer Society said today frog tadpoles may be used in the future to determine the existence of cancer causing chemicals.

The Society said that in recent experiments a certain known cancer causing chemical caused cells in rapidly growing frog tadpoles to become oversize and stay that way for weeks.

The doubling in size of cells itself is probably not harmful, a society spokesman said. However, the process by which the doubling takes place leads to changes in the chromosome structure. If the changes prove to be essential to the type of cancer cells which grow rapidly and kill, the spokesman said, then the use of tadpoles "might offer a simple and rapid test for chemicals suspected of causing cancer."

PRINCE AT ZOO — Prince Mashhur, son of King Saud of Saudi Arabia, raced wildly from cage to cage while visiting the Washington, D. C., Zoo. Here, he is showing photographers how fast he can go on the new brace and specially-fitted shoes made for him after he was given therapy treatment at the Walter Reed Army Hospital. A few hours later, King Saud and his son left by plane for the Azores and Spain.

300,000 Doses of Salk Vaccine In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Allegheny County Health Department officials prepared for an all-out assault on polio today by stocking 300,000 doses of Salk vaccine to be used in a mass community protection program.

Dr. Arthur G. Baker, county health director, said 100,000 shots already were in cold storage and more than 200,000 doses were on their way.

The mass program was scheduled to get underway March 1 on three fronts. The health department, in conjunction with the County Medical Society, planned a vigorous campaign to get patients to doctors' offices before the polio season begins; the promotion of clinics in schools, colleges and industrial plants; and mass free clinics in hospitals and large buildings.

The mass program is aimed at providing protection to a million persons under 40 years of age.

Hagerstrand on National Board

Charles W. Hagerstrand, executive vice president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Monessen, has been appointed to the 1957 Veterans' Affairs committee of the United States Savings and Loan League.

The appointment was announced today by Roy M. Marr, of Memphis, president of the League, which is the nationwide trade organization of the savings and loan business and represents more than 4,300 savings associations and cooperative banks.

The veterans' affairs committee, composed of savings associations leaders who are veterans, analyzes methods of improving housing programs designed to assist veterans in acquiring home ownership on sound bases.

Parleys with Macmillan and Mollet Planned

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (UP) — The White House today announced plans for President Eisenhower to hold separate meetings in February and March with the premier of France and the Prime Minister of Great Britain.

The President will meet French Premier Guy Mollet in Washington, Feb. 26-27.

His conference with the new British prime minister, Harold Macmillan, will be held Bermuda March 21-24.

The Eisenhower - Macmillan meeting has long been forecast, but not confirmed officially until today.

Macmillan early last month was selected to succeed Sir Anthony Eden who resigned for reasons of health at a time when his leadership was under sharp critical fire for his handling of the Middle East crisis.

Suez Discussion

Mollet has wanted to visit the United States for some time, particularly to discuss the Suez Canal and French policy in North Africa.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said original plans for the two meetings were "mutual in both cases." This was in reply to a question on whether Macmillan had asked to see the President.

Hagerty said the Bermuda site for the Macmillan conference was picked at the suggestion of the Chief Executive who conferred there in December, 1953, with Sir Winston Churchill, then the British prime minister, and Joseph Laniel, then the French premier.

It was immediately after the 1953 meeting in Bermuda that the President went before the United Nations with his atoms for peace plan.

Mr. Eisenhower, who is spending a golf and hunting vacation on the south Georgia estate of Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, was up early this morning in telephone conference with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

They discussed, as they did Sunday and Saturday, pending efforts in the United Nations to have Israel withdraw all armed forces from the Gaza Strip.

Father Drives Car into Canal; Seven Killed

MIAMI (UP)—Authorities have filed seven separate warrants against a 50-year-old father who drove his car into a canal Saturday night, drowning his wife, five young sons and a neighbor's son.

Peace justice Hugh Duval Jr. set bond at $5,000 for Ralph Evans, driver of the car, who is being held in the Dade County Jail.

Constable W. M. Hudson said the basis for the manslaughter warrants was the "bad brakes" on Evans' car, a 1947 Ford sedan. A police officer said he inspected the car after it was pulled out of the canal and found that the brake pedal went down to the floor.

Sgt. W. J. Geronimo, head of the suburban Hialeah Gardens police, said he had ordered Evans two weeks ago to take his car off the highways. Evans and a friend, Edwin McDonough, 58, were the only two to escape.

Smithton Spearheads Drive for Industries

Frank Frost, burgess of Smithton Borough, along with the Borough Council, are spearheading a concentrated drive to attract new industries to the Smithton area.

They want new industries to locate on a 400-acre site near Fitz Henry, the same site that was first rumored as optioned for an airplane plant and later reported under consideration as a location for a new military air base.

Frost and council are seeking the cooperation of neighboring communities. He said West Newton, South Huntingdon Township and Rostraver Township communities have been requested to cooperate with a development committee to be named by councils board of supervisors, school boards, service clubs and chambers of commerce in the four areas.

Thus far, Frost pointed out, only three men have been appointed to the proposed committee. Besides the Smithton burgess the other two men are Blair Barthels, Smithton school director, and Robert Streets, Rostraver Township school director.

The burgess indicated that the committee's main efforts, when it is formed, will probably involve the Fitz Henry site, which if a new air base should be built there — could bring an annual payroll of up to $35,000,000 into the area.

Terrorists Die In Guillotine; Riots Continue

ALGIERS (UP)—Three convicted terrorists died under the guillotine today in France's efforts to stamp out the three-year-old rebellion that took 18 lives in a series of bomb explosions Sunday. Five Moslems were killed by an angry crowd.

Twelve persons were killed and more than 50 wounded when nationalist rebels set off two time bombs in two packed football stadiums in Algiers Sunday. The action so angered the French that five Moslems were beaten to death.

Three persons died and 11 were wounded when a terrorist tossed a bomb into an Algiers cafe Sunday night. Another three persons were killed and 13 injured when rebels threw a bomb in Guenza, a small village in eastern Algiers 87 miles southeast of Constantine.

Algerians were tense in the wake of the worst outbreaks in months, and reinforced patrols of the 10th Foreign Legion Paratroop Division patrolled the streets to guard against mob violence between Moslems and Europeans.

Military Governor General Jacques Massu called for strict security precautions for the funerals of the bomb attack victims. In the past European crowds returning from the cemetery often have attacked Moslem residents.

Former Deputy Bucks Coroner Freed from Jail

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (UP) — Dr. William L. Goldfarb, former deputy Bucks County coroner, was released from Bucks County Prison today after serving two months of a three to 23 month sentence for charging the county for an autopsy which never was performed.

Goldfarb was released after his application for parole was approved by the Montgomery County court which sentenced him after he pleaded no defense to the charge last December.

In his parole application, Goldfarb, a Bristol, Pa., chiropodist, said he realized he had done wrong and that the court had not been unduly severe in its sentence. He has paid approximately $1,300 in fines and court costs.

Goldfarb and coroner Russell J. T. Ferris were tried in Montgomery County court on a change of venue from Bucks County. Ferris pleaded no defense to charges of fraud and embezzlement and was sentenced to serve a term of six to 23 months in jail. Ferris' recent application for perole was rejected because the court said it did not feel he was properly repentent.

Slight Damage in Belle Vernon Fires

A minor fire resulted from a short circuit at the Hagan Dairy Bar at 428 Broad avenue in North Belle Vernon yesterday afternoon around 2 o'clock.

North Belle Vernon and Belle Vernon Fire Departments answered the alarm. Both companies also were called this morning at 8 o'clock when a chimney fire broke out at the residence of Ellworth Wilkenson at 1024 Graham street. The fire was extinguished in a few minutes.

Damage in both fires was negligible.

Lock 4 Closed by Flooding River; Heavy Rainfall Blamed

The Monongahela River in the Monessen area flushed over its banks over the weekend causing Lock No. 4 to go out of operation yesterday.

The runoff from the river and creeks caused "nuisance" flooding throughout the district. Route 711 near Fayette City was closed and employes at the Monessen Page plant of American Chain & Cable Co., Inc., were forced to use different entrances and exits when several feet of water poured into the regular tunnel entrance.

A spokesman at Lock No. 4 said the water was falling and that operations were expected to be resumed around noon today.

Nearly three inches of rain in a 24-hour period caused the upper Monongahela and its tributaries—the Chest, Tygart and West Fork Rivers in West Virginia, to climb to their highest mark in six years early today before they receded.

No extensive damage was reported in Pennsylvania or West Virginia.

Hardest hit by the flood were the West Virginia communities of Clarksburg, Weston and Philippi. Crests of five feet over flood stage were registered at Clarksburg and Weston and four feet at Philippi. The rising waters flooded lowlands and basements.

The waters also blocked U.S. Route 19 at five places in the Clarksburg area as well as Route 5 at two locations and Route 119 just outside of Weston.

The rain-fed waters raised the Monongahela River at Pittsburgh to 22 feet, three feet below the official flood stage. The Monongahela River public parking wharf was closed because of the high waters.

Farther south in West Virginia, the Kanawha River crested eight feet above flood stage at Glenville and Creston. Meanwhile, at Huntington, where the Guyandotte joins the Ohio, a crest of 47 feet, three feet below flood stage, was expected during the day.

Rain also fell in southern West Virginia where Williamson, Logan and Welch were hit by disastrous floods last week. Although the tug and Guyandotte rivers rose sharply, they crested far below flood stage.

Flash floods in Portsmouth, Ohio, and Scioto County, Ohio, during the weekend boosted the Ohio River to near flood stage between Portsmouth and Cincinnati. The floods washed out numerous roads, but main roads were reported open today.

In loving memory of our dear mother, grandmother and great grandmother, Mrs. Maude Hazzard who died December 20, 1928 and our father, grandfather and great grandfather, George H. Hazzard who died February 10, 1953.

Loving memories never die
As years roll on, and days pass by.
Deep in our hearts a memory is kept
Of the ones we loved and will never forget.
Friends may think we forgot you
When at times we seem to smile,
Little do they know our sorrow
That the smiles hide all the while.
We think of you in silence
No eyes can see us weep
But many silent tears are shed
While others are asleep.
A smile, a tear, a thought sincere
How often we wish that you were here.

Sadly missed by Sons, Daughters, Grandchildren and great grandchildren

Integration in Washington Is Praised in Report

WASHINGTON (UP)—A top Washington educator said Sunday that integration of Washington schools has produced a "miracle of social adjustment."

He indirectly refused the charges of four Southern House members who reported after extensive hearings last year that integration had caused "appalling" disciplinary and sex problems in Washington schools.

Dr. Carl F. Hansen, assistant superintendent of District of Columbia schools, issued a report on the progress of integration in Washington schools. It was published by the Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'rith.

The report said the local board of education is "well on the way" toward meeting its primary objective: "The maximum development of every pupil, regardless of race, creed, cultural and economic status, and supposed capacity for learning."

Hansen said the "big fear" was that integration would hold back the education of some children. But he said, that "is rapidly yielding to the concentrated drive to effectuate the big solution."

Starving Game, Birds Fed by Plane in State

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP)—Starving deer, small game and birds in Central Pennsylvania were fed Sunday by Air Force Reserve Transport pilots from the Philadelphia area who dropped 30,000 pounds of corn in woodland areas.

The airdrop, sponsored by the Aero Game Feeding Club of Pennsylvania, was carried out by crews of the 326th Tactical Squadron, 12th Troop Carrier Wing, stationed at an air base in New Castle County, Del.

The corn paid for by members of some 400 sporting groups, was loaded into three planes at Black Moshannon Airport here, and dropped in isolated territories in Blair, Centre and Clearfield Counties.

Recent heavy snows have made it difficult for animals to forage for natural food.

POLAND, JAPAN RE-ESTABLISH TIES — Josef Winiewicz (left), Deputy Foreign Minister of Poland, and Toshikazu Kase, Japanese Ambassador to the United Nations, are shown in New York City after they signed a formal agreement re-establishing diplomatic relations between the two countries. The agreement was approved by Poland and Japan in advance of signing.

At Least Eight Die In State Accidents

By UNITED PRESS

Icy highways and wind-driven rain combined to boost the traffic toll in Pennsylvania during the week end.

A United Press survey showed at least eight persons lost their lives on the highways of the state between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday. Three teen-agers died in one accident.

Ice coated roads in the eastern part of the state and rain soaked highways in the western section.

The fatalities:

Elizabethtown: Robert Pursell, 17, and William Boyer, 18, both of Middletown, and Richard Tinker, 16, Highspire, were killed Saturday when their automobile crashed into a truck on the Harrisburg Pike near Elizabethtown. Patricia Claycomb, 16, Highspire, and Katherine Tripp, 16, Herbert Caswell, 16, and John Bianci, all of Middletown, were hospitalized in serious condition.

Uniontown: Denver J. Golden, 31, Uniontown, was struck and killed by an automobile, Saturday night as he walked along a highwar near his home.

Greensburg: Earl W. Crusan, 28, Export, was fatally injured when he fell out of his careening car, shortly before midnight Saturday and was struck by an oncoming automobile.

Downington: Mrs. Sidney North, 46, Cochranville, was killed Friday night when her automobile skidded on an icy stretch of Route 322 in Chester County and smashed into a tree.

Sellersville: Paul R. Field, 37, died of injuries suffered when pinned beneath his milk truck Saturday after it overturned on ice-coated Bethlehem Pike.

Lewisburg: Donald E. Schell, 19, Laureltown, was fatally injured Saturday when the car in which he was riding crashed into a utility pole and rolled into a field near Lewisburg in Union County.

Two Freighters Collide in Upper New York Bay

NEW YORK (UP)—Two freighters collided in upper New York Bay early today near the Brooklyn - to - Staten Island ferryboat route.

The Coast Guard said there were no injuries but one of the ships was badly damaged. The 6,625 - ton Marine Courier, owned by the Marine Navigation Co. Inc., caught fire after the collision which gashed her admiships from the bridge to below the water line.

The American Export Lines 7,047 - ton freighter Exbrook had her bow stove in but sustained no other damage.

A ferry stood by to take off survivors while Coast Guard craft, police and fireboats and Army tugs from Governor's Island rushed to the scene.

The burning Marine Courier was towed to shallow water in Red Hook Flats off Brooklyn where firemen from fireboats extinguished fires in her No. 2 and No. 3 holds. The Coast Guard said the vessel would remain afloat.

The Exbrook made her way to an anchorage off St. George, Staten Island.

Not Worth It

AYLESHAM, England (UP) — Miner Bert Gough set out with all good intentions of getting to work on time Sunday, but he was delayed. He fell down a flight of stairs, tripped on the garden path, scraped his car fender against the garage and got his car stuck in the mud in his driveway. He decided to take the day off.

Steel Economist Says Depression Is not Likely

NEW YORK (UP) —Edward J. Verity, staff economist of the Lukens Steel Co., Coatesville, Pa., today predicted there would be no major depression for the next 20 years.

Speaking before the American Steel Warehouse Association here, Verity said there are "too many conditions which prevail today that are entirely different from past experience" which serve to forestall a depression.

Verity also said that a long-term forecast study by the steel company showed:

1. Total output of goods and services will increase about 11 per cent annually over the next 20 years.

2. Industrial production will increase five per cent annually.

3. The general price level will increase probably by three per cent a year.

4 Steel production will increase approximately four per cent a year.

Man Dead Before Struck by Auto

MERCER, Pa. (UP) — Deputy Mercer County Coroner A.L. Lyons said today that a man who was struck by an automobile on Rte. 62 probably was dead before he was hit by the machine.

According to Lyons, the victim, Thomas A. Gregg, 60, Stoneboro RD 2, apparently was stricken by a brain hemorrhage while walking along the road and his body was struck sometime later by a car driven by James C. Amos, 19, Jackson Center RD 1.

Arab Monarchs in Franco Meetings

MADRID (UP)— Two visiting Arab monarchs scheduled separate conferences today with Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The monarchs were King Saud of Saudi Arabia who arrived here Sunday from an official visit to the United States and Sultan Mohammed V of Morocco.

Democrats Critical of Ike's Mideast Plan

WASHINGTON (UP) — Two Democratic senators charged today that President Eisenhower is seeking "blank check" authority in his Middle East resolution to wage defensive war without consulting Congress.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) said in a Senate speech that the President's request is "unprecedented" and that if it is approved, "naked executive power will rule, the highest and most fateful interests of the nation."

Fulbright proposed that the resolution be ditched in favor of a simple statement by the Senate—without force of law—that it will "support the President's policy of opposing the expansion of Communist influence in the Middle East."

The President has asked for authority to use U.S. forces, if necessary, to combat any Communist aggression in the Middle East. He also seeks authority to spend $200 million in available funds as he sees fit on economic and military aid projects for the area.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said hat the resolution, as written, would "break down the system of checks and balances" on presidential authority set up in the Constitution.

In testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees, he proposed a series of amendments to require the President to confer with Congress before committing U.S. forces in the Middle East and to report on the reasons he wanted to resort to military action.

O'Mahoney also proposed striking out the "blank check" economic and military aid features.

Other congressional news:

Trade: President Eisenhower sent Congress a report recommending U.S. participation in the International Organization for Trade Cooperation. The report was the first required by law on the operation of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT). Mr. Eisenhower said present U.S. trade policy "furthers both our prosperity and our national security."

Israel: House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (D-Mass) opposed any United Nations sanctions against Israel for refusal to pull her troops out of Egypt. McCormack was the latest of a growing list of congressmen to urge the United States to vote against any such sanctions. If the United Nations does approve them, he said, they should be voted against Egypt as well.

Oil: Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wgyo) has served notice that Congress may have to step in if big oil companies don't voluntarily cut back gasoline prices. O'Mahoney, chairman of a joint Senate subcommittee investigating the administration's emergency oil program for Europe, said he saw no "real reason" for the recent increases.

Farm: Democrats planned a drive in Congress to increase the soil bank program by as much as $500 million. The increase would to specifically to provide cash payments to farmers for keeping land out of use. Soil bank payments now are limited to $450 million annually for this purpose.

Refugees: Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) has charged that 6,200 Hungarian refugees to enter the United States were Communists. He said they were the first batch of refugees passed by U.S. refugee relief administrators.

Four Children Burned to Death

DETROIT (UP)—Four children burned to death Sunday night when a fire swept through the family's second story apartment while the mother was visiting neighbors.

Mrs. O'Dell Batts, 23, the mother, was arrested later and held for investigation of manslaughter.

The victims were identified as Lois Batts, 6, her brothers, James, 5, and Steve, 3, and a sister, Cheryl, 8 months. A fifth child, Trina, 2, was hospitalized in serious condition from smoke inhalation.

Philippine 'Quake

MANILA (UP)—A strong earthquake rocked the southern Philippine provinces of Surigao and Samar for at least 5 seconds this morning. No damage was reported. The center of the quake was located about 480 miles southeast of Manila.

Your Health—

Your Walk May Reveal Your State of Health

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

A doctor can tell a lot about a person's health simply by observing the way he walks. You probably can, too.

You've seen elderly persons who are forced to take short steps. They walk with sort of a mincing gait. Often this can be attributed to hardening of the arteries or other ailments which generally come with neglect during advancing age.

The most common cause of disturbances in gait of both children and adults is faulty or abnormal bone structure in the legs or back.

Bowed-legs and knock-knee are examples of such abnormalities. Muscular disorders also affect a person's walk.

A progressive case of muscular dystrophy, for example, produces an awkward, waddling gait. The person leans back from his hips as he walks.

Of course, we can't make an accurate diagnosis based entirely upon a person's walk. But when his walk is considered with other symptoms, it does give us a pretty good indication of what is wrong.

There must be smooth and close coordination among the nerves, muscles, bones and joints of the body for proper walking.

There are six basic displacements of the body's center of gravity which determine your gait. These are the lateral pelvic movement, pelvic tilt, pelvic rotation, knee flexion and knee and foot interaction.

When this vast system of nerves and muscles is functioning properly, you can walk with relatively little energy.

When one of these determining factors loses its effectiveness, you might be able to compensate for the loss with only a little more effort. But let something go wrong with any two of them and you'll walk only with the greatest difficulty.

Of course, there are other things which also affect the way you walk. It is, naturally, important to have good health, for it goes hand in hand with good walking.

Question and Answer

T. Y.: The muscles in my arms constantly ache. Is there any way to relieve this condition?

Answer: Aching in the muscles of the arms may be due to excessive exercise, to some circulatory disturbance, to arthritis, or to some disorder affecting the nerves.

Careful study by your physician is needed to find the cause before any treatment could be suggested.

Truman Basking In Sunshine of Florida Keys

ISLAMORADA, Fla. (UP)—Former President Harry S. Truman basked today in the sunshine and friendly informality of the Florida Keys, reluctant to discuss politics with reporters.

The ex-President and his wife were driven to this small tourist fishing center late Sunday after their arrival by train in Miami.

Some 2,000 persons welcomed the Trumans in Miami and the couple lingered to exchange greetings for about 15 minutes.

Mr. Truman said it was 'overwhelming" for an "old has-been" to receive such a welcome, but members of the crowd shouted, "You'll never be a has-been, Harry."

Mr Truman noted the 76-degree temperature and joked "it was so foggy" at home in Independence, Mo that "I hit my head

"But as you know," he added, 'my head is pretty hard."

GOP Conservatives Are Dissatisfied

President's Program Is Target

WASHINGTON (UP)— The conservative wing of the Republican Party seems to be winding up for an assault along a broad front against some of President Eisenhower's foreign and domestic programs.

The President's position on a number of issues has come under fire from several individuals in his own party in the past few days, including his administration's leader in the Senate, Sen. William F. Knowland.

Mr. Eisenhower and "new Republicanism" were the targets for some conservative-wing fire during the weekend in Chicago.

Discusses Ideas Tonight

Knowland, who often becomes restive over administration foreign policy, objected to talk about invoking United Nations sanctions against Israel. Some usually staunch administration backers joined him in opposing any U.S. support for such sanctions.

Knowland will discuss his ideas for new U.S. approaches in the United Nations in a speech tonight at Georgetow University here.

The California senator also indicated dissatisfaction this weekend with Mr. Eisenhower's record peacetime spending budget of $71.8 billion. Knowland told newsmen that he expects Congress to cut the administration's appropriation request by more than $2 billion.

Bridges Joins In

Sen. Styles Bridges (NH) chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee and another dominant figure in the party leadership in Congress, agreed with Knowland. He told a reporter Sunday that he was working on a detailed program to show how administration money requests could be cut by upwards of $2 billion.

The budget is the keynote of the administration's legislative program. A $2 billion cut would almost certainly require some alterations of policy in both the domestic field and the foreign aid program.

Both Bridges and Knowland predicted that Congress would take a slice off the administration's $1.95 billion program of foreign economic aid.

Knowland has become increasingly identified as a leading spokesman for the conservative wing of the GOP, although it could be argued that he stands at the center of his party. He usually votes with the administration, but when he dissents he seems to do so in a spectacular fashion.

HURT IN MID-AIR PLANE MISHAP — Stewardess Estelle Monroe of Louisville, Ky., is treated in a Chicago hospital for injuries received when an Eastern Airlines Super-Constellation, which took off from Miami, ran into bad weather south of Indianapolis. The plane took what was described as a "sudden drop" of 200 feet. Three others suffered injuries.

Democratic Drive to Up Farmer Subsidies

WASHINGTON (UP) — Administration cuts in farm price guarantees today spurred a Democratic drive in Congress to provide more farmers with cash subsidies for taking surplus acres out of production.

Several Democratic farm leaders agreed there was no chance that Congress would intervene and jack up the reduced 1957 support prices for eight major crops announced Saturday by Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson.

But they hoped to persuade Congress to send the White House a farm bill that conceivably could increase by as much as $500 million subsidy payments payable to farmers under the soil bank program.

Reps. W. R. Poage (D-Tex) and Thomas G. Abernethy (D-Miss) said the proposals would reach an early vote in the House Agriculture Committee.

The administration opposes Democratic plans for tinkering with the soil bank. But the administration at the same time is pushing for early action on separate corn legislation. Members said the committee may begin voting Tuesday on new farm legislation.

Major beneficiaries of the Democratic proposals would include producers of wheat and cotton. In response to rigid production curbs, these farmers have diverted acreage into barley, oats, sorghum grain or other crops on which there are no planting restrictions.

They would be paid under the Democratic proposals for keeping so-called "diverted acres" idle to hold down the overall grain surplus.

Taking another approach to the problem of curbing over-production of uncontrolled corps, Benson on Saturday set price supports for this year's crops of oats, barley, sorghum grain, rye, soybeans, and flax seed at lower levels than last year. He also reduced price props for cotton and its by-product, cottonseed, although that crop is under rigid planting controls.

Ohio Telephone Co. Strike in Seventh Month

COLUMBUS, O. (UP) — The Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. strike droned toward the end of its seventh month today amid reports the negotiators may be "finally getting somewhere."

The long and violence-torn walkout affecting telephone service in 24 Southern and Eastern Ohio counties will mark the end of its seventh month this Friday.

Despite another outbreak of violence in Portsmouth Sunday, an Ohio Consolidated spokesman said negotiators are beginning to make some progress during talks at a downtown hotel here.

Richard Zachman, company public relations director, said, "I may be a little over optimistic, but I think the contract negotiators are finally getting somewhere."

Representatives of the company and Communications Workers of America held three sessions last week but reported no progress on specific contract issues.

However, Zachman said "the general attitude and atmosphere look promising."

Meanwhile, the company reported nine more cables were cut in Portsmouth during the weekend that two repairmen were attacked by five persons while testing a trunk line leading to the city's Mercy Hospital.

Closing of several coal mining operations and a slowness in attracting new industry to the area has left it on an ebb tide, economically speaking, for the past several years.

Consideration of the Fitz Henry area as a possible location for a military air field began last year, after Allegheny county officials declined to approve expansion of facilities at Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

The Pittsburgh Aero Club and its president, Clifford Ball, headed the drive for the county site — which is still reported under option to persons sympathetic to the air base proposal.

Thus far, however, armed forces spokesmen have made no commitments regarding either the county location or several other western Pennsylvania sites also reported under consideration.

It has been indicated that an air force base would include facilities for Reserves' training, in addition to regular facilities for the jet interceptor unit now based at Greater Pittsburgh.

Ball and the Aero Club pushed hard for the Fitz Henry site at a recent "Jet Age Conference" in Pittsburgh, but their efforts have not as yet produced results, positive or negative.

Man Shot to Death While Fox Hunting

BEDFORD, Pa. (UP)—Coroner J. H. Kniseley ruled accidental today the death of Franklin H. Manges, 53, Ward, who was shot to death while fox hunting near his home.

Dr. Kniseley said Manges apparently stumbled down a rock slide Saturday and his rifle discharged when it struck the ground. The bullet struck the hunter in the chest.

Manges' body was found by his son, Walter, who started a search when his father failed to return home for dinner.

Worthy Went to Red China for 'Press Freedom'

NEW YORK (UP)— William C. Worthy, American Negro newspaperman, said Sunday night he defied the State Department ban on travel in Red China "to uphold the principle of freedom of the press."

"I went to Red China primarily for the story, but also for the principle," he said. "The right to free movement is very precious."

Worthy, a reporter for the Baltimore Afro-American, was the first U.S. correspondent to enter Communist China. He said he still has his passport and will fight any action the State Department may try to take against him for breaking its ban.

"It's a matter of upholding the principle of freedom of the press," he said on a television program. "If the government is allowed to tell a reporter where he can go, then it will be telling him what he can report."

Worthy arrived here after landing in Boston earlier from Vienna. He had left Red China after a 41-day visit via Russia and then went to Budapest before going to Vienna.

Hammarskjold Asks New Instructions in Middle East Deadlock

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold today asked the United Nations General Assembly for new instructions in dealing with the Israeli-Egyptian deadlock in the Middle East.

He informed the assembly in a new report published this morning that Egypt has reaffirmed "its intent to observe fully" the provisions of the 1949 armistice agreement which outlaws "hostile or warlike acts" by either Egyptian or Israeli forces.

He pointed out that the Assembly could recommend "collective measures"—the sanctions demanded by the Arab countries—but that such a recommendation would not be compulsory upon U.N. members.

Sounds Warning

Hammarskjold warned, however, that invoking sanctions against Israel, "while supporting efforts to achieve peaceful solutions, may perhaps, on the other hand, be introducing new elements of conflict."

The assembly was expected to meet Wednesday to consider Hammarskjold's report and resume its Middle East debate. There was an outside possibility it might be summoned Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the United States made a strong new appeal to Israel today to get her troops out of Egyptian territory without delay.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred with Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban at the State Department to stress this government's position.

A Washington dispatch said administration officials felt that failure of the Israelis to withdraw from the former Egyptian-held areas soon would increase dangerously the risk of a new Middle East war.

There also were indications at the United Nations that the United States is seeking from Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser the pledge of non-belligerency which Israel demands from Egypt as the price for withdrawing from the strategic areas bordering Israel.

Dulles In Conference

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles summoned Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban to Washington today in hopes of persuading Israel to withdraw from the disputed areas, but there were no indications Israel would budge without guarantees against future Egyptian attacks.

President Eisenhower, in Thomasville, Ga., is conferring daily with Dulles over the Middle East Problems. Presidential Press Secretary James C Hagerty gave no indication the President was making progress in efforts to persuade Israel to withdraw.

A clue to next developments in the Middle East may come today from UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. He is expected to release a report on the Mideast and his negotiations toward a settlement.

The General Assembly meanwhile was expected to meet Tuesday to consider the Hammarskjold report. It also is to take up the question of the 900,000 Arab refugees of the 1949 Palestine War, many of whom still live in the Gaza Strip.

Canal Question Pending

Jordanian Ambassador Abdel Monem Rifai called a meeting today of the 27-nation Afro-Asian bloc to consider proposals for U.N. sanctions. He has sought economic, military and diplomatic measures against Israel.

There was growing opposition in Washington to sanctions. House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass) said on a TV program Sunday sanctions against Israel were not justified under present circumstances and that they also should be invoked against Egypt.

Earlier, New York Republicans Sens. Irving M. Ives and Jacob K. Javits told Dulles the same thing. Others taking the anti-sanction position were Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis) and Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California.

The question of the Suez Canal was expected to precipitate even a more severe crisis when it opens next month. There have been firm indications Egypt will refuse British and French ships to use the canal unless Israel withdraws its forces.

Three small ships attempting to navigate the canal Sunday piled up 49 miles south of Port Said when they encountered a sunken LST, the Akka. Salvage crews hoped to remove the Akka from the channel today.

Two Women Hurt In 'Pike Crash

CARLISLE, Pa. (UP) — Two Bucks County women were injured, one seriously, when their station wagon shot out of control and ran into a culvert on the Pennsylvania Turnpike east of Newville early today.

The victims were Catherine M Benner 22, and Mary A O'Connor, 21, both of Tinicum.

of attempting to organize a rump faction within the union and fomenting "dual unionism," the cardinal sin of the labor movement.

The union chief, 54, believes his record is the best advertisement for re-election to the $50,000 a year job. Since 1952, the union has won benefits equivalent to 67.5 cents a hour and has hiked the basic hourly pay scale to an average $2.75 an hour.

Rarick's dues protest campaign and his presidential bid has crystalized much of the anti-McDonald sentiment existing within the steelworkers.

William Klug of Milwaukee, joined Rarick's slate as candidate for secretary-treasurer, opposing incumbent I. W. Abel. But Vice President Howard R. Hague is running unopposed for re-election, following the sudden withdrawal of protest candidate Edward Revak last December.

Two Directors Opposed

Two district directors also list opposition. John R. Sullivan, director of District 15 in the Homestead-McKeesport area near Pittsburgh, faces a vote test from Paul Hilbert, Dan Deaton and suspended international organizer Stephen Gall.

In Cleveland's District 28, Paul Schremp, an international staff representative, is seeking to oust B. W. Ohler from the director's chair in a local fight having no connection with the McDonald-Rarick tilt.

Both sides are counting on a heavy turnout to swing the vote their way.

McDonald supporters are listing their man a "shoo-in." Rarick vows, "given an honest count," one million members will support his cause.

Jaywalkers Face Trouble Now in New York City

NEW YORK (UP) — One of the oldest traditions dear to the hearts of this city's 8 million people will soon be abolished—police hope.

Furthermore, those caught executing it unknowingly, out of necessity or purely for sentimental reasons will be fined.

For what?

Jaywalking!

Traffic Commissioner T. T Wiley said Sunday night in a radio interview that jaywalkers cannot cross against the light. The fine "should be nominal—a dollar or two," he said.

But New Yorkers should not be too sad. Parisians, not too long ago, were full of consternation when they were forbidden to blow their automobile horns, which had long been an enjoyable custom of their everyday life.

The law will probably not go into effect until "next summer" the commissioner said, but remember then, he who walks against redlights will pay greenbacks.

Tourist Business

LONDON (UP)— The British Travel and Holidays Association reported today that 235,400 Americans visited Britain last year and spent an estimated $134.4 million. The figure was 7 per cent higher than in 1955.

U. S. Reds in Parley

NEW YORK (UP)—The U.S. Communist Party meets today to discuss a proposed new constitution by which members voted overwhelmingly to remain a political party in a Moscow-recommended decision.

Delegates to the party's 16th national convention adopted a compromise resolution Sunday framed to resolve sharp differences among the party's leadership.

Members voted to continue the name and party form and to "strengthen, rebuild and consolidate" the party as recommended by the Kremlin.

The resolution which opposed changing the party into a "political or education association" was a victory for the faction headed by William Z. Foster, the party's 75 - year - old national chairman. Foster and Eugene Dennis, the party's general secretary have hewed close to the hard Moscow line.

It offered a compromise to a faction headed by John Gates, editor of the Communist Daily Worker, in providing for further discussion, "as may be organized by the incoming national committee." Gates has advocated that the party have more independence. He hoped for an end to legal and other restrictions that have virtually isolated it in the United States.

Party officials who filtered news of the convention to reporters who were barred from the convention hall, said there were only three opposing votes and 17 abstentions, against "more than 300 favorable votes," in the balloting.

'Limited Access' Hearing on Wednesday; Group to Protest

A public hearing will be held in Greensburg Wednesday on the State Highway Department plan to convert relocated Route 31 into a "limited access" facility.

John Rezzola, of the Highway Department's legal staff, will conduct the hearing, scheduled to begin at 10 a. m. in the Courthouse.

A spokesman for the Highway Department said the purpose of the hearing will be to determine the economic effect on the community of the proposed conversion.

The "limited access" plan has drawn sharp criticism from land owners along the route of the highway. If approved, the dual-lane road will be accessible only at certain points.

Moreover the Highway Department had planned to bar all business and commercial establishments in the immediate vicinity of the roadway.

The protesting group will be represented at the hearing by John Costella, a Charleroi attorney.

According to a spokesman for the protesters, at least 25 persons will be present for the hearing.

"We plan to form a motor caravan at the Ebenezer Church along Route 31 on Wednesday morning at 8 a. m.," said A. V. Vacarro, of Rostraver Township. "We invite all land owners to join us. Transportation will be supplied."

Earlier it was reported that the hearing would be held in the New Stanton Fire Hall. However the session has been arranged for the courthouse.

If the Highway Department goes through with its "limited access" plan, it will mean considerable more construction work in the 36 mile highway. Most roads leading to the new highway will be carried on overpasses, a spokesman said.

According to the Highway Department, the "limited access" ruling is necessary to fit Route 31 into a federal system of high speed highways. Moreover the Department contends that the safety factor is improved when commercial establishments and lead-in roads are eliminated.

The protesters counter with the argument that area communities will suffer by the "limited access" ruling. They argue that tax revenues will be lost and that the value of the road to district motorists will be greatly diminished if it will be accessible only at certain points.

Claims First Refugees to U. S. Were Fleeing Reds

Says 6,200 First Hungarians Here In That Category

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) charged Sunday that the first 6,200 Hungarian refugees to arrive in the United States were Communists fleeing from freedom fighters in their own country.

Walter, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities and co-author of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, said some 30,000 Communists crossed into Austria during the first stages of the Hungarian revolt.

Walter said the Communists, including some secret police agents, were the first group to flee the country, and it wasn't discovered who they were until several days later.

He accused U.S. refugee relief administrators of passing out the first 6,200 visa numbers to Hungarians of this group. He said the visas were taken away from "real refugees" in Europe for this purpose.

Walter appeared on a television program (American Forum, NBC) with Sen. Jacob K. Javits who defended the refugee program and the President's new immigration proposals.

Referring to the first 6,200 refugees to enter the United States, Walter was asked by moderator Stephen McCormack: "Are they Communists?"

"Of course they are Communists," Walter replied.

Immigration Commissioner Joseph M. Swing, whose agency was responsible for screening the refugees, was not immediately available for comment.

Javits pointed out, however, that Swing reported last month that only three "subversives" were discovered among the first 23,000 Hungarians admitted to this country. He quoted Swing as saying that 32 inspectors "of long experience" were processing the refugees.

Javits conceded the refugee program was not without risks. But he said it was "to our very great national interest" and "was the way in which we could strike the heaviest blow at the Russians."

George Liberace Is Victim of Chicago Beating

CHICAGO (UP)—George Liberace, violin-playing brother of pianist Liberace, was beaten and robbed today by two strong-arm bandits.

George was slugged and hospitalized for treatment of painful head injuries when he tried to resist the robbers. The Negro thugs took a $1,500 diamond ring in the shape of a violin from Liberace and his German Westerling violin, also valued at $1,500.

Authorities said George had left the Chez Paree night club, where he and Liberace are appearing, early this morning. He was walking toward his nearby hotel when the two bandits, one armed with a pistol, stepped from a doorway.

George surrendered his ring and $50 in his wallet without protest, police said, but when the bandits demanded his violin he punched one of them. The robbers jumped on him and hit him several times before fleeing.

Although groggy and bleeding from several cuts, George walked back to the night club and informed his brother who notified police and took George to Wesley Memorial Hospital for treatment and observation.

Dock Workers On East Coast Planning Strike

NEW YORK (UP)—Dock workers will strike at 5 p.m. EST Tuesday shutting down ports from Maine to Virginia spokesmen for the International Longshoremens Association said Sunday night.

The strike would close the world's largest port, already suffering from a ten-day-old tugboat strike which now threatens to inflict fuel rationing and "brownouts" on New York City's 8 million consumers.

A general membership meeting of the ILA was scheduled for today. Negotiators for the Marine Towing and Transportation Employers Association will meet with representatives of Local 333, United Marine Division of the National Maritime Union this afternoon, to discuss the tugboat strike.

An 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction which expires at 5 p.m. Tuesday, ended last November's nine-day strike.

After negotiations to avert the longshoremen's strike failed Sunday night, Louis Waldman, general counsel of the ILA said:

"There is no hope whatever of a settlement before 5 p.m. Tuesday. If there is no settlement there is no alternative to a strike.

Queen Will Join Duke Aboard Royal Yacht Sometime Friday

LONDON (UP) — Queen Elizabeth II ignored today published rumors of a "rift" with the Duke of Edinburgh and let it be known she will join him Friday aboard the royal yacht Britannia.

They will spend a two-day, strictly private "second honeymoon" in Portuguese waters.

Buckingham Palace announced the Queen's plans as the British press broke its self-imposed censorship on reports of a royal rift and as the Daily Mirror appealed to Prince Philip to fly home from Gibraltar for a family reunion.

The Queen will be flying to Portugal for a state visit, but the state visit will wait while she goes aboard the Britannia for a weekend with the Duke in the romantic bay of Setubal, 20 miles south of Lisbon.

The Duke, who waved goodbye to the Queen last Oct. 15 when he set out on a world voyage, will meet her Saturday at Montijo Airport near Lisbon.

The reports hit 10 million breakfast tables today when three London newspapers splashed the story—and the Buckingham Palace denials—across their front pages. A fourth, the Manchester Guardian, suggested the American press must have "taken leave of its senses."

The tabloid Daily Mirror which devoted its entire front page to the story urged in screaming headlines: "Fly Home, Philip!" And it added this is "the way to kill a silly rumor." Sunday papers made a similar appeal without reporting the rumored rift.

Plan "Second Honeymoon"

Palace sources disclosed the Queen had been in telephone conversation with the Duke who is watching home fleet activities at Gibraltar while waiting for the Queen to join him Saturday in Portugal for a "second honeymoon" and a state visit.

It was assumed in royal circles the Queen and Duke had discussed the world wide rumors during their telephone talks. The Queen has never looked happier in recent days and it was assumed they had decided to ignore the rumors and try to kill them by the warmth of their reunion after four months of separation.

Some London papers suggested the Queen lay aside royal protocol and fly to Gibraltar. Others suggested the Duke fly to London.

Whales in 'Mass Suicide'

MARATHON, Fla. (UP)—Scientists and conservationists tried to find out today why a school of small whales committed "mass suicide."

The mammals, identified as a species of small whale called blackfish, ranging from 7 to 14 feet in length and from 300 to 1,600 pounds in weight, rammed ashore early Sunday.

Some 50 of the blackfish floundered in the shallow waters of Key Colony Beach and causeway in the Florida Keys.

Scientists from the University of Miami marine laboratory will examine the carcasses in an attempt to solve one of nature's mysteries.

State conservation agent George Gross attempted to tow the whales into deep water with his boat. He said he believed the invasion was "an instinctive mass suicide" which has been noted several times along the Florida coast.

Gross said he believed none of the whales would live because of gashes inflicted by thrashing in the shallow water and overexposure to the sun.

Basic Agreement

IT IS REASSURING, in the opening phases of this year's municipal elections in Monessen, to have the two men who so far have announced as candidates for mayor firmly on the record in support of programs planned or actually underway for community improvement.

Mayor Parente's position, of course, has been known. While for some time he had resisted the idea of a long-range development program, for the past year or two he has been enthusiastically and effectively supporting such planning. And he and the other present members of City Council have taken several important official steps in the direction of a truly inspiring civic renaissance.

Now John R. Stieska, who announced last week that he will oppose Mayor Parente's bid for renomination on the Democratic ticket, also declares his support of "the ambitious plans for redevelopment and progressive action which have been initiated". Mr. Stieska's approach to the voters apparently will be along the line that he is in position to make a more substantial contribution to the city's future development than can Mr. Parente.

This seems to us to be a very good omen. It means, we believe, that those who aspire to political leadership in Monessen accept the idea of scientific planning of community development as being good politics as well as good government. And that is the ideal atmosphere for accomplishment.

We hope as the local campaign develops, other candidates, particularly those for mayor and council, will make clear their support of the development program in general. It is neither necessary nor desirable, of course, to have unanimity on the details and methods of the improvement projects. There should be ample room for discussion, and even controversy, among candidates as well as among the citizenry as a whole.

But if we have achieved a basic agreement among the people of Monessen that an imaginative program of community rehabilitation is both desirable and possible — that in itself is an important preliminary victory. Without it, further progress could not be made.

Justice in Jeopardy

THE JURY SYSTEM in Washington County has been undergoing some apparently serious study in recent weeks as a result of complaints of several attorneys, who have contended that the selection of jury panels has not been entirely a matter of chance as the law provides.

The county court has been asked to investigate the matter and make corrections if the complaints are found to be justified. As this is written, the court has not yet acted.

The whole jury system, including the manner in which citizens are called for jury duty, is something that touches the vitals of our judicial processes. It is not an exaggeration to say that, if there is anything seriously wrong with the jury system, justice itself is in jeopardy.

The gist of the complaints in Washington County has been that, instead of being chosen entirely by lot as the law contemplates, jury panels have to an important extent been handpicked by the jury commissioners. The charge even has been made that the jury commissioners have given politicians, such as ward chairmen, the privilege of designating names to be put into the jury wheel and of keeping other names out of the wheel.

It does not take much imagination to appreciate what such practices can do to the administration of justice. Washington County lawyers point out that a class of "professional" jurors has been created, persons who are called for jury duty time after time.

If these things are even partially true, justice in Washington County, at least the kind of justice envisioned in constitutional phrase, "trial by jury", has become a travesty, and immediate corrections are called for.

It would behoove the courts of other counties, perhaps, to have a look at the methods of juror selection which prevail in their jurisdiction.

Kelley 'Not Voting'

WHEN the U. S. House of Representatives recently adopted President Eisenhower's Middle East program, the congressman from Westmoreland County, Rep. Augustine B. Kelley, was recorded as "not voting". The Congressional Record contains no explanation of Mr. Kelley's absence on this important occasion.

The Congressman's excuse may be a good one — we hope it is. But he has been criticized in the past for not being faithful in his attendance on the sessions of the House, and he should let nothing trivial keep him from performing his duty when questions of grave national and international importance are being decided.

Whatever you may have thought of Harry Truman as President, you can't deny he makes a wonderful "has been".

Governor Leader is seeking advice from outside the state and adding to the staff within the state in a very unique program to increase revenue from the Sales Tax. The program — collect the tax.

Merry-Go-Round—

Link Dewey To 'Inside' Stock Deal

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — With 10,000,000 Americans operating in the stock market, and with the stock market in prolonged doldrums, a lot of people are taking a look at the Securities and Exchange Commission set up to protect the public from stock-market manipulation. It seems that the SEC, however, is looking the other way. Here is an interesting unpublicized illustration:

Mr. Pearson

Jim Sibbison, alert reporter for the Associated Press, was thumbing through the customers' cards of Elliott and Co., the Wall Street firm which "privately" handled a $4,000,000 bond issue for the Crowell-Collier Publishing Co. Suddenly he came across the names of Thomas E. Dewey and Adlai Stevenson. Immediately he asked the SEC about these two investors.

SEC officials had known about them all along. But, put on the spot by Sibbison, they brought the matter out in public hearing. They revealed that Stevenson had purchased 500 shares of Collier's stock on the open market just like any other investor. He got no privileged, inside position. His purchase was in November 1954 before the debentures now under investigation were sold.

Dewey on Inside

But Dewey, the SEC belatedly revealed, had invested privately in the new debentures in July 1955, through an inside advantage given him by his neighbor, Robert Ducas of Pawling, N. Y. Dewey's name did not even appear on the list of participants of the so-called "private" issue of Collier's stock. His neighbor had a chance to buy $60,000 of these private debentures, let Dewey in on the deal, and the ex-Governor of New York later sold on the stock market, making $3,850.

Once the SEC attorneys were put on the spot they did a good job of cross-examining broker Edward L. Elliott. But they have not summoned Dewey to testify. His friends have been pulling wires with the SEC to prevent his appearance and so far they have been successful.

Here is the cross-examination of broker Elliott by Edmund Worthy, assistant director of the SEC's Division of Corporate Finance:

"Well, did you ask Mr. Ducas whether or not there was anyone else to participate with him in the debentures that he was going to take?" asked Worthy.

"That is the only place where I had an inkling that there would be another person," replied Elliott. "You people know who that is. You have been fully informed, and I think that it would be a grave injustice to that other person (Dewey) if it were spread on the record. You have been completely informed as to his identity and the circumstances."

Worthy, however, later returned to the subject of the mysterious purchaser. At this point Elliott's lawyer, F. Van S. Parr, Jr., raised strenuous objections.

"I don't think there should be any equivocal testimony, Mr. Parr," insisted Daniel J. McCauley, Jr., SEC presiding officer, "and I think we should have on the record whether or not on July 7, 1955, Mr. Elliott knew that there was someone other than Mr. Ducas involved in the purchase by Mr. Ducas. Can you say whether or not on that day you did know?"

Name Withheld

"On July 7 I had reason to believe that there would be another person in addition to Mr. Ducas," said Elliott.

"And who was that person?" asked McCauley.

"I thought we had an understanding that that name would not be put on the record by Mr. Elliott," interrupted the disgruntled Parr. SEC's McCauley, however, was determined.

"Well, why was this name kept off this list of 27 that is now in evidence here, sir?" continued Worthy.

"This particular individual is very careful to keep his name off as many lists as possible, so his name cannot be improperly used," Elliott explained weakly. ". . . This particular person happens to be a friend, happens to be a man that I hold in the highest esteem, and Mr. Ducas indicated that it was the desire of both Mr. Ducas and this unnamed person to have it handled in the way that I have mentioned."

"I shall ask you first, sir, if the name of the gentleman whose identity was disclosed by Mr. Ducas was Mr. Thomas E. Dewey of New York?" asked McCauley.

"It was," admitted Elliott.

What makes Dewey's role particularly interesting is the fact that as a top lawyer he should have known the SEC's requirement that an unregistered "private issue" be held by a small number of known investors. Yet Dewey's identity was concealed.

The Trials of Making Peace

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The United States is with good reason opposing the movement to have the United Nations intervene in the Algerian disorders. The good reason, which is, I hasten to say, not the avowed official reason, is that the situation in the General Assembly is such that public peace making by means of open resolution is for all practical purposes impossible. The alignment of the blocs in the Assembly does not now permit the United Nations to exert an even-handed pressure where there is an issue between West and East.

Mr. Lippmann

If, therefore, the General Assembly were to take over the Algerian problem, the net effect would almost certainly be to encourage the Algerian Arabs to be irreconcilable and to refuse those compromises which will be necessary if there is to be a peaceable settlement. Far from promoting peace, the United Nations would almost certainly find itself promoting disorder.

Deadlock on Issues

In my recent article, I cited the voting strength of the various blocs among whom combinations must be made to produce the two-thirds majority which is needed for an important resolution. The basic situation may be summarized in this fashion: that it takes 52 votes to pass a resolution that it takes 27 votes to veto a resolution, and that while neither the Easterners nor the Westerners command a majority, each has a veto.

Thus when there is a major issue, be it over Hungary, Suez, Gaza, Aqaba, Kashmir or, for that matter Algeria, the two vetoes are enough to stop the General Assembly from acting at all. This deadlock can be broken only if certain of the great powers — on the Western side the United States, on the Eastern side the Soviet Union or India, switch sides.

This is what happened in the Egyptian affair when the United States voted on the same side as did the Soviet Union and India. There was no stalemate and the U. N. took effective action to compel the withdrawal of Britain, France and Israel from Egypt. But there has been no corresponding switching of sides, as there needed to be, to apply equal pressure to Egypt. There has, of course, been no equal pressure about Hungary and none about Kashmir. If Algeria were taken up by the U. N., the whole pressure would be on France, and none on the Arab Nationalists.

The fact of the matter is that the veto is always applied one way and it is not always applied the other way. For that reason the General Assembly is proving itself to be incapable of carrying out the prime purpose of the United Nations, which is to promote the peaceable settlement of conflicts.

Private Negotiations

This situation is so bad, so provocative of disorder and so dangerous to the peace that it would be intolerable were nothing being done about it. Something has to be done about it, and what is being done is to try to work out in private understandings what could never be avowed or put to a vote in the General Assembly. This is illustrated by the Israeli-Egyptian deadlock over whether Israel shall or shall not right the wrongs she has committed without assurances that Egypt will right the wrongs that she has committed.

The pressure on Israel to withdraw without any public assurances would make no sense, would indeed be grossly unjust, were it not accompanied by private assurances that Egypt will not in fact again blockade the Gulf of Aqaba and will not again use Gaza as a base for guerilla war. If there were no good reason to believe that Egypt will in fact concede what she will not in principle conceded, the President, Mr. Dulles, and Mrs. Hammarskjold would in morals and in equity be torn no position to apply pressure to Israel.

It is sometimes said that the action of the U. N. in Egypt is in fact directed to the restoration of the status quo ante, and that that was so bad that it must not be restored. That is not, as I understand it, a correct description of what is going on in New York.

What the Secretary General is trying to do is to restore not the status quo ante in fact. For both sides violated the armistice and he does not wish to restore the violations. What he is trying to restore is the status quo ante in law — that is to say the rules of the armistice.

Old Pact Good

A new agreement to observe the old armistice would, if it were respected, solve all the important points now at issue between Egypt and Israel. The old agreement has the peculiar merit that every party to the conflict has already signed it.

The question is whether this old vehicle can again be put on the road. The answer to that question is that this can conceivably be done — given a supreme exercise of private diplomacy, not only on the part of the heavily laden Mr. Hammarskjold, but also by the President, and not only in Cairo and Jerusalem and New York but also, it may be, in Moscow.

Outlook Good for Civil Rights, School Bills

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Two important pieces of domestic legislation, which failed to pass Congress during the 1956 session, appear to have better prospects this year.

The outlook is that if the President actively uses his influence on Capitol Hill both the $2 billion, four-year school aid bill and the administration's moderate civil rights program can become law during the next few months.

Mr. Drummond

What will surprise many, perhaps, is the recurring prediction that some civil rights legislation is going to go through this session. This forecast comes as something of a surprise because of the widely held theory that a civil rights bill could never surmount a Southern filibuster, that a determined minority can always block the action of a majority in the Senate.

My own conviction is that this theory has never been true. A determined majority always could defeat the blocking tactics of a determined minority, and the real reason civil rights measures have not been enacted in recent years is that they have not had the support of a determined majority of senators.

Senators Indifferent

What they have had is the ardent advocacy of a minority of senators, the ardent opposition of another minority of senators and an in-between attitude ranging from moderately friendly to abysmally indifferent.

If civil rights legislation is to pass, it will have to be backed not by a faint-hearted majority but by a determined majority.

The judgment of most congressional correspondents is that there now is a determined majority in the Senate behind at least the administration program which doesn't go as far as some of the Democratic liberals would like. What the White House wants to bring about is this:

1. The creation of a distinguished bi-partisan commission to investigate civil rights violations of all kinds.

2. The establishment of a Civil Rights Division, headed by an assistant attorney general, in the Justice Department.

3. New protections to be thrown around the right to vote. These would include congressional authority for the Attorney General to seek an injunction against any private person or public official who acts unlawfully to prevent any eligible citizen from voting.

Students of civil rights laws generally agree that the investigative commission might turn out to be more window-dressing than real. They feel that the proposals giving the federal government better means to enforce the right to vote by civil rather than criminal action are the heart of the program.

There is strong Republican senatorial backing for such a civil rights program. The House passed it last year and will easily do so again. A considerable number of Northern and Western Democrats favor this program or something stronger.

Bi-partisan Majority

This adds up to a pretty formidable bi-partisan majority.

There are also new political incentives. The Negro vote showed itself moving out of past grooves and the Republican party was the beneficiary last fall. It is clear that if the Republicans are going to be able to further this trend or if the Northern Democrats are going to be able to arrest or reserve it, they will have to show themselves to be the friend of the Negro voter.

This is why civil rights legislation will have more friends this year and this is why a faint-hearted civil rights majority has become a very determined civil rights majority.

There will be a filibuster in the Senate against the civil rights measures and it will probably fail.

Federal aid to the schools will also pass if Mr. Eisenhower can persuade sufficient Republicans to help defeat another version of the Powell amendment which would mix desegregation with school construction — and help neither. Many of its advocates are profoundly sincere and many others used it simply as a means of defeating the bill by first voting for the amendment and later voting against the bill.

To fail to build the schools will not help integration and there will be no federal aid for school construction if a Powell amendment is attached to it.

It will help, I think, if the administration's civil rights program is acted upon in the Senate before the school bill. Its passage might well reduce the pressure for a Powell amendment.

Boy Babies Wanted, But Girls Are Nice

By MARGARET LATROBE

And so another fairy tale begins. Little Princess Caroline Louise Marguerite of Monaco was born in a pink palace by the sea. Born with a solid gold spoon in her mouth, this baby girl will soon be sipping apple sauce from it and winding Papa Rainier around her small fingers.

If there was disappointment in not having a "son and heir" it is covered up and forgot. This baby is just what Grace and her prince wanted. . . and anyway, there will be more children running about the palace. Surely one will be a son, to rule the principality of Monaco.

Mrs. Latrobe

Girl children, even today when "equality" is so highly touted are never given quite the welcoming salute accorded boys. "It's nice to have a boy first," we say "and then. . . well, girls are all right." The ideal family is invariably a boy and a girl, always in that order. Fathers of five or six daughters are figures of fun, for some reason I do not fathom. Poor chap — no sons! Five or six boys, though — a basketball team, plus umpire or coach. However poignantly a family may yearn for just one little girl, they get little sympathy. But Eddie Cantor's plight — five daughters — has paid off.

In earlier times it was vastly important to have sons. More than bearing the family name, a son was expected to bear the brunt of ploughing the east 40, fighting a decent duel or so, and keeping the younger fry lined up. Girl children might, if beautiful and rich, contract favorable marriages with important sons of another house. Or they might make themselves useful in unimportant feminine chores around the house. Where food was scarce, baby girls might be tossed in Chinese rivers. Sons were important, daughters not at all.

Any mother of a little girl would, I think, say this implied favoritism is all wrong. Boy babies cuddle up to dump trucks, cannot wait to be part of that big, wide wonderful world. Their youthful eyes are on far places. Wonderful they are, but not with the same magic of little girls. Perhaps girls are born with that wisdom of the race, knowing that while Buddy got a 100-gun salute she rates only 21. Perhaps they smile, hearing that "little girls are sugar and spice and everything nice." They know they'd better be!

I hope it's true that Grace and her Prince aren't disappointed. That baby girl is a treasure, one who will become dearer every day. And if they do have a son — we hope so — about the fifth time he breaks a palace window, lets Rainier's pet animals loose and pours glue in the soup they will look at each other, astonished. Was this little devil what all the shooting was about?

"THE MISERY OF THE BACKACHE"

BY

Dr. Frank F. Tucci

Only those people who at one time or another have suffered from backaches can attest to the misery that results from this condition. Too often, the person afflicted assumes that he has "caught a cold in the back" or a "slight strain" and expects the condition to run its course to an eventful recovery.

When this approach fails —and it always does—he seeks attention of a conventional nature only to add to his misery and cloud his complaint with "mystery".

Bachache can be very painful . . . What's more, it can lead to serious disorders not immediately associated with pain itself. The pain is nature's way of warning that something is wrong.

Frequently, pain in any part of the back is caused by a subluxated vertebra somewhere in the spinal column which places pressure on nerves. The subluxation sets up interference not only to the flow of nerve energy from the brain to the muscles which maintain the vertebra in normal alignment, but also to the flow of proper quantity and quality of nerve energy to other vital organs. Thus vital organs do not receive normal nerve energy supply, and consequently fail to perform their function properly. The particular organ affected depends upon which nerves are involved.

Chiropractic offers competent and effective care in cases of backache. Chiropractors locate and adjust the offending vertebra, thereby correcting the cause of backaches.

It will pay you to visit a Chiropractor today, for your "misery of the backache."

Here's More on Record Squabble

Recently we challenged a Charleroi claim that the Cougar basketballers had whipped Monessen six straight times before the 1918-19 season. Admittedly the issue was nothing more than a bit of sports trivia, but it excited so much attention that we've decided to pursue the matter a little further. As a matter of fact we were prompted into action by a Charleroian (who wishes to remain unidentified) who is pretty generally recognized as the Cougars sports historian. He stoutly maintains that CHS quints whipped Monessen six straight times prior to the 1918-19 season, which was Monessen's first in the WPIAL, and from which point MHS records originate.

* * *

Here is the Charleroi argument: "Our teams defeated Monessen twice in the seasons of 1914-15; 1915-16 and 1916-17. No games were played between the schools in 1917-18 when Monessen posted an undefeated record. Then, too, Monessen takes credit for a game in 1919 which actually ended in "no decision" as a result of a riot. The all-time series record should be 41-39 in Monessen's favor at the moment, not 42-33 as you report. We have records from Charleroi school publications to support our argument."

* * *

Finally Turn up Cage Scores

Since this opinion hardly coincided with the picture of those early years supplied by Monessen sources, we reopened our "probe" to get to the bottom of things. To begin with no records are available at Monessen High since those early scorebooks were destroyed when the school burned in 1947. However a closer check of old Daily Independent newspaper issues, now recorded on micro-film, produced results. Among other things, they proved conclusively that Monessen High did not have a basketball team in 1914-15. Consequently the Greyhounds could not have lost two games that season.

* * *

The first MHS quint was organized in 1915-16 by Stewart Townsend, now principal and coach at West Newton High. That was the year the high school was opened with the first gym in the city's history. Prior to that, a couple of independent teams had played games in the old Opera House and at the Turners. The first MHS team consisted of John Preston, Ron Williams, Lloyd Miller, William McKinley and Jack Reed. Only Preston had any previous basketball experience, having played with the Turners for a time. The original MHS quint was no match for Charleroi, losing two games, 36-14, and 45-15.

* * *

Correct MHS-Charleroi Cage Slate

The following year, the Greyhounds dropped their game at Charleroi, 23-15. But it was a different story on March 4, 1917 when Monessen recorded its first basketball triumph in history over Charleroi. The score was 30-17. That MHS five went on to win the Mon Valley title and later defeated West Newton, 27-24, for the Westmoreland County crown . . . It is true, as contended by the Charleroian, that Monessen did not meet Charleroi in 1917-18, a season in which the Greyhounds swamped all opposition. The Cougars and Hounds had severed relations over a football dispute . . . In 1918-19, the cage series resumed . Monessen won the first game, but in the second tussle at Charleroi a riot occurred at half-time with Monessen ahead, 15-13. The game official—John Mates, of Pittsburgh—awarded the contest to Monessen. Thus the corrected Monessen-Charleroi basketball series now reads 43 wins for the Hounds and 36 for the Cougars.

Mantle Has Developed Into Top Notch Golfer

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UP) — Mickey Mantle, who not too long ago was a duffer in the divot-digging diversissement, may evoke buzzes of admiration from the galleries later this week in the national baseball players golf championship at Miami Springs, Fla.

Second baseman Billy Martin, buddy and road - roommate of the triple-crown batsman, says Mickey's golf improvement "has been spectacular in the last year or so, although he's not a Cary Middlecoff yet."

If Mantle lives up to Martin's notices during play from Thursday through Sunday, his performance will strike a mighty blow against those pusillanimous pedants who still insist that whacking the little links pill ruins a batsman's cut. And that interest in golf leads to lethargy on the diamond.

Corresponding Advances

It seems that during Mickey's year of greatest improvement on the fairways, he attained his peak status as a ball player — batting .353, driving in 130 runs and hitting 52 homers.

It reminds us of the kayo on the chin Rocky Marciano gave the die-hard trainers and managers who insisted that swimming would "bind up" a boxer's punching muscles. Rocky, a real water-dog, swam as much as possible between grinds and credited some of the power of his blows to "practicing punching under water."

Mantle and Martin already are in Miami for the tourney, which offers free accommodations to the first 50 active and inactive major and minor-league players to enter. Those and other participants need pay no greens fees. They include working baseball writers, TV-radio men and camera men.

One of the attractions will be Lou Kretlow, the Kansas City pitcher who consistently shoots in the 70's and has a burning yen to play a round with President Eisenhower sometime.

Pitcher Jim Hearn of the Phillies will be there, too. And he'll get a real kick of Mantle's improvement makes headlines. Poor Jim has been a target for many of the frowning don't-play - golf disciples. It's true that during his early big-league days he concentrated so much on chipping and wedge - pitching that his mates called him "Jimmy Demaret."

Durocher Wouldn't Have It

And when the Cards traded Hearn to the Giants in 1950, Leo Durocher's first words to him were:

"Are you a ball player or a golfer?"

Hearn said he was a ball player. Yes, he was sure of it.

"Well, I'm glad you've made up your mind," Durocher snapped, "because from now on you're going to concentrate entirely on pitching and forget all about golf."

And so Hearn put away his clubs — until Durocher left the Giants.

Babe Ruth was one of the most ardent golfers in baseball history, and the Scottish pastime apparently never hurt his play. And his outfield understudy, Sammy Byrd, became a golf pro.

When Slammin' Sam Snead was asked if golf cramped a ball player's style, he replied, "You never see me playin' baseball, do you?"

City League Playoffs Begins Tonight

Charleroi May Clinch Tie

Cougars are Near Sec. Five Crown

This is the week Charleroi may clinch at least a tie for the Section 5 basketball title.

By winning their assignments tomorrow and Friday, the Cougars will assure at least a deadlock in the final league standings.

At the moment, Charleroi heads second place Monessen by a game and a half. The Cougars are heavily favored to increase that margin to two full games tomorrow when they play host to Bellmar.

Earlier in the season, the Cougars trampled the Canes, 63-34, so they should have no trouble in the return engagement.

Other Section 5 games will show Brownsville at Monongahela and California at Donora. The only other valley team with title hopes — Monessen — will be idle.

No Trouble

On Friday, Charleroi will appear at California. The Cougars should get by that one without trouble, too.

In other words, Charleroi has just about wrapped up 1957 honors.

Over in Section 10, Derry is beginning to pull away. The pacesetters meet Hurst tomorrow and a win in that game will give them a pretty good grip on first place.

Fading Rostraver plays host to Rostraver. The Leps must win to maintain a faint mathematical hope of tying for top honors.

In another Section 10 battle, Ligonier will go to Scottdale. The Scotties still have hope, too, but they must take Ligonier.

Section 17 Quiet

No games are scheduled in tight Section 17 tomorrow.

The district Junior High front will show no league action tomorrow either.

Two exhibitions are scheduled. Bentleyville will go to Monessen, and Rostraver to California.

Brickner Takes His Birthday Swim As Usual

CHARLEROI, Pa. (UP)— Steelworker Gus Brickner the "human polar bear," said today he was "getting old" and had to make his attempt to swim the English Channel this year "or never."

The burly Charleroi millhand celebrated his 45th birthday Sunday with a quarter mile swim down the 34-degree Monongahela River. He originally planned to swim across the river, but flood-swollen currents forced him to swim along the shoreline.

Brickner said the birthday dip was the splash-off of his campaign to raise funds to finance an attempt to conquer the English Channel.

"I'm getting old," Brickner said. "I've got to try the channel now or never."

Triple Header Tips Off 1957 Post Season Fun

The 1957 City Basketball League playoffs will begin tonight at the Junior High gym.

A triple-header will tip off the fun, beginning at 7 p. m.

Here's the card:

Viaduct vs. the Cips at 7; Big Five vs. the Yellow Jackets at 8 and Fuocos vs. Ozarks at 9.

A new playoff scheme has been adopted to decide the 1957 champion. Every quint in the league will take part.

The revised system was adopted when the league was forced to call off third round activity.

Viaduct vs. Cips

Viaduct, second place finisher in the league standings, will meet the last place Cips. The Viaduct boys, who are defending league champions, should have no trouble eliminating the Cips in that one.

Likewise, third place Big Five is a solid favorite to wipe out the eighth place Yellow Jackets.

The Fuocos-Ozarks game will be staged to decide fourth place. Both teams ended the season with 8-8 records. Thus both the winner and loser in that game will be back for another playoff appearance.

The Cro-Ams, who breezed through the regular campaign without a loss, will sit by while the other teams knock each other off. The pace-setters will not play until the three game championship round.

Additional Games

Additional first round games are scheduled on Wednesday while the quarter-finals are slated Thursday.

The semi-finals will be played in three-game sets, beginning next Monday.

Both the eventual champion and runner-up will receive trophies.

Moreover a most valuable player award will be set up this season by the Monessen Sport Shop.

NASCAR Stages Speed Tests

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UP)— The hot competition among Chevrolet, Ford, and Plymouth headed to the beach today for NASCAR's measured-mile tests against the clock.

Each of the big-three of the low-price field had their stock models finely tuned for one of the highlight events of NASCAR "speed-weeks". The cars will raie against the clock over a straightaway, three-mile beach course that allows one mile for acceleration, one mile for timing in the "speed pit" and another mile to deccelerate.

The average time for the speed run through the pit in each direction will determine the winner and the manufacturer who can boast loudest in the sales race between the big-three of the American auto industry.

Important Week For Duquesne

By UNITED PRESS

The Duquesne University basketball squad enters a critical period this week which will determine whether the tournament matchers deem the Dukes desirable to appear in post - season big-time shows.

The Dukes play Carnegie Tech Tuesday night in the first of this week's three important games, but the real test for the future comes this week end when they journey to Philadelphia.

The men who issue bids for such contests as the National Invitational Tournament will be watching Coach Dudey Moore's charges when they meet Temple at the Palestra Friday and tangle with LaSalle on Saturday.

Carnegie Tech, meanwhile, plays the touring Israeli Olympic team in Pittsburgh Wednesday night and journeys to Bucknell on Friday and Allegheny on Saturday.

The Pitt Panthers will be idle until Saturday when they are host to Navy.

Golden Gloves Open Tonight

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The preliminaries of the 12th annual Dapper Dan Golden Gloves Tournament open here tonight with nearly 200 youthful Western Pennsylvanians battling in the most wide open race for titles in the tourney's history.

More than 20 bouts nightly through Thursday in order to peel down the field for contention in the area finals slated to begin Feb. 19 at the Pitt Field House.

The field was wide open because not a single senior champion was entered to defend his title.

Cardenas was floored four times in the second round, three in the third, one in the fifth and two in the sixth. Most of the counts were for eight or nine. The bell saved him in the third and fifth rounds. But he was counted out at 1:30 of the sixth.

Frankies Drop Star, McClellan

LORETTO, Pa. (UP)— The St Francisco College basketball team was without the services of its star center, Jim McClellan, today after the 6-6 junior was dropped from the squad for "scholastic difficulties."

McClellan, of Pittsburgh, planned to take extra work this summer in order to be eligible to play as a senior next season.

He scored 278 points in 14 games with the Frankies this year for an average of 19 9 points per game. He also led the Frankies in rebounds with a 17.6 average.

Brownsville Leads Big Six In Pupils

Brownsville continues to lead Big Six schools in enrollment, according to official PIAA figures released today.

These statistics will be used to determine sports classifications for 1957-58.

All schools with 1,000 or more students must compete in the double-A football program. Those schools with more than 500 are bound to take part in Class A. And schools with less than 500 are bracketed in Class B.

In basketball there is only one division. Schools with 500 or more must play in Class A.

Brownsville has 1146 students from grades nine through 12.

Monongahela Second

Surprisingly the second largest school in the valley is Monongahela with 1028. Charleroi is third with 1003.

Those three schools have no choice but to compete in the double-A division.

Monessen, Redstone and Donora may slip back to Class A, but none of the three has any such intentions.

Monessen's enrollment if 983, Redstone's 860 and Donora's 711.

Rostraver continues to grow in school population. The Leps now have 610 studentss Bellmar has 574.

Here are the enrollments of other district schools: Bentleyville, 273; California, 707; Centerville, 472, Elizabeth, 795; Ellsworth, 383; Glassport, 575; Jefferson, 451 Perryopolis, 389; South Huntingdon, 405; West Newton, 215.

School Enrollments

WPIAL schools with enrollments of 1,000 or more in addition to the three Big Six entries include Ambridge, 1295; Baldwin, 1219; Beaver Falls, 1260 (ninth grade not included); Butler, 2212; Clairton, 1645. Connellsville, 1485, Duquesne, 1211; Ellwood City, 1328. Greensburg, 1488; Har-Brack, 1104; Hempfield, 1021 (ninth grade not included); Mt Lebanon, 2132; Munhall, 1085 (ninth grade not included); New Kensington, 1163 (ninth grade not included), Penn Twp 1901; Sharon, 1275, Trinity, 1112; Turtle Creek, 1195, Uniontown, 1468; Washington 1015, West View, 1230; and Wilkinsburg 1150 (ninth grade not included).

The largest school in the state is Allentown, with 2604 students, excluding ninth graders.

Other high schools outside of the WPIAL with 2,000 or more students are Upper Darby, Reading, York, Williamsport, Altoona and Johnstown. The later two schools competed in WPIAL football only.

BOWLING

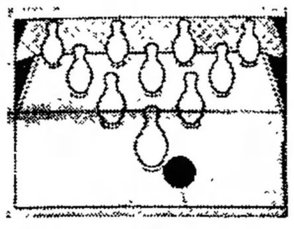
By JOE JANNOTTA

For the past few days, we've been considering spares.

All of which has prompted a reader to write:

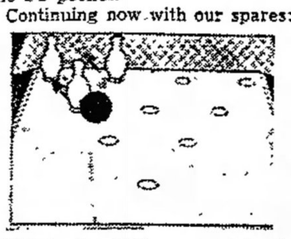
"Aren't you getting ahead of yourself. I'd like to know the best way to get a strike."

Well, here's the proper technique:



Deliver your ball on the alley four to six inches from the right edge. Hit the 1-3 pocket. A "back-up" ball should be delivered into the 1-2 pocket.

Continuing now with our spares:



This is the 4-7-8 or any triangle spare.

Deliver your ball into the 4-8 pocket, hitting the No. 4 pin fairly full on the right side. Similar spares should be played in the same way.

Blast Furnace Wins Title in Polio Tourney

Blast Furnace won the 1957 March of Dimes Bowling Tournament title yesterday by taking No. 3 Maintenance in two straight games.

The Furnace boys turned in scores of 825 and 709, compared to marks of 761 and 661 for the losers.

The teams had emerged during eliminations last month from a large field of all-star clubs representing Pittsburgh Steel bowling leagues.

Making up the championship team were Mike Adamio, Steve Szabo, Walter Cieply, William Valko, Jim Szabo, Henry Masur, Joker Kissler, Andy Baron, Harry Respo, Don Hennessey, Chuck Ellin, Glenn Shepler, Barne Fal and John Mullen.

The runners-up were Dominick Alessio, Bill Spadafore, Nils Nelson, Don Lehew, Joe Righetti, Bob Bernardo, Pete Cipriani, Sam Dominico, Dom Vecchione, and Nick Alatsis.

Elks Move into 1st Place Tie

Elks blanked Aquarium in Center's League bowling action on Saturday to earn a first place tie with the Turners who won a pair from No. 3 Maintenance.

In another match, Cro-Ams won two of three from Italian Hall.

Leading scorers were Jim Salay, 200-509; Eddie Kurtz, 174-502; Woch Cieply, 205-539; Steve Beck, 217-595; Joe Bafile, 186-536; Louis Imbrogno, 195-509.

Standings show Turners, 12 - 6; Elks, 12-6; Italian Hall, 11-7; No. 3 Maintenance, 9-9; Cro-Ams, 8-10; and Aquarium, 3-15.

Press Drive for Injured Gridder

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (UP) — Beaver County residents pressed an all-out campaign today to raise funds to meet the increasing medical expenses of Geneva College football star Dick Kadis who was injured last fall in a game with Waynesburg College.

The drive includes benefit basketball games, a radiothon, creation of several fund committees and setting up of collection agencies in banks and fraternal organizations.

Kadis, an outstanding lineman from Cleveland, has been unconsciout most of the time since last Sept. 29 when he collapsed after the Waynesburg game. Medical expenses are mounting at the rate of $500 a week and now total more than $160,000.

Three Games Set

The organized drive got underway here last Saturday when a group of citizens created a central organization to coordinate the appeal. Special committees were immediately set up in Aliquippa, New Brighton and Hopewell Twp.

It also was announced that three benefit basketball games will be staged before the drive ends Feb. 23 with a radiothon over Beaver Falls radio station WBVP.

The first game is scheduled for Thursday at the Beaver Falls High School gymnasium between members of the Pittsburgh Steelers National Football League team and a squad of University of Pittsburgh football players.

One-Man Drive

The high school gym also will be the scene of another basketball game between Geneva and the Fort Knox, Ky., Tankers on Feb. 23. A third benefit was planned for Hopewell Twp.

Other activities included the establishment of a ""tag day" for contributions in Aliquippa Friday and distribution of collection jars among all fraternal organizations in Beaver Falls and Ambridge. The Union National Bank and the Beaver County Trust Co. were designated depositories for New Brighton.

In Beaver, Register of Wills Clair Allison launched a one-man campaign at the county courthouse and collected $212 in a single day.

Rookie Goalies Boosts Boston

By UNITED PRESS

The goalie is generally the butt of all hockey jokes except in the case of rookie net-minder Don Simmons, who is receiving virtually all the credit today for boosting the Boston Bruins within a point of second place.

Simmons, who recently took over for veteran Terry Sawchuk, narrowly missed his third National Hockey League shutout Sunday night as the Bruins toppled Toronto, 5-1. Boston held a 4-0 lead before Marc Reaume scored the Leafs' only goal at 16:10 of the second period.

The New York Rangers took over sole possession of fourth place when a goal by Dean Prentice with less than two minutes to play gave them a 5-4 decision over Montreal.

Detroit played a 2-2 tie with Chicago but the deadlock enabled the Red Wings to increase their league lead to four points over the second-place Canadiens.

Baron Goalie Stingy in Light

By UNITED PRESS

Daylight seems to have a strange effect on Cleveland Baron goalie Marcel Paille.

Twice now the Barons have scheduled Sunday afternoon hockey games and both times Paille has responded with shutouts. He applied the whitewash to Hershey, 1-0, Sunday to enable his team to stay on the heels of league-leading Providence. It was the fourth shutout of the season for Paille and was Cleveland's fourth straight victory. The only goal was scored by Dan Poliziani early in the first period.

Providence remained two points ahead of the Barons by whipping last-place Springfield 4-1, in a wild affair.

In the other game, Buffalo stopped a four-game Rochester winning streak by whipping the Americans, 6-2.

St. Monica in Bowling Sweep

St. MMonica blanked St. Mary and St. Anne took a pair from St. Theresa in St. Cajetan Bowling League action last night.

Scoring leaders were Virginia Oliver, 109-312; Lenora DiVitto, 106-301; Lillian DeMarino, 126-336; Josephine Nicksich, 158-400.

Standings show St. Anne, 19-8; St. Theresa, 13-14; St. Mary, 12-15; and St. Monica, 8-19.

Sowell Sets New Mark; Vaulter Eyes 16 Feet

NEW YORK (UP)— The 16 foot pole vault will be the next major track and field "barrier" to be broken, says Bob Gutowski of Occidental College, a young man who believes he can do it.

Gutowski, a wiry, 21-year-old 145-pounder, made the best vault of his life and narrowly missed setting a world record when he skyrocketed 15 feet, six inches to tie Rev. Bob Richards of Los Angeles for the Millrose title Saturday night.

"The way we're vaulting now we'll reach 16 feet definitely within the next two years," Gutowski said. "I hope to be the one to do it and I think maybe I can."

Three world indoor records were smashed in the Millrose Games but Ron Delany of Villanova, who has run the mile in less than four minutes, turned in an ordinary 4:06.7 time in beating another four-minute miler, Laszlo Tabori, in the Wanamaker Mile.

Olympic decathlon champion Milt Campbell of Plainfield, N.J., broke the world indoor mark for the 60-yard hurdles by twice running the event in seven seconds flat. That was a tenth of a second better than Harrison Dillard's previous record.

Arnie Sowell of Pittsburgh broke both the 800 meter and 880 yard marks with times of 1:49.7 and 1:50.5 while winning the latter event. Those times erased Mal Whitfield's old records of 1:50.1 and 1:50.9.

Horace Ashenfelter of New York won the two-mile run in 9:02.3. Reggie Pearman of New York won the Mel Sheppard 600-yard run in 1:11, and Ira Murchison of Chicago tied the indoor record for the 60-yard dash with a 6.1 clocking in the semi-final, after which he won the final in 6.2.

Meet Today to Decide Title of Tucson Open

TUCSON, Ariz. (UP) —Unspactacular, but oh, so steady, Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., and Don Whitt, Alameda, Calif., an "old pro" at 26, battled it out today in an 18-hole playoff for the Tucson Open golf title and $2,000.

These youngsters fought a brilliant battle to tie for the lead after four rounds Sunday when spectacular Bill Casper Jr., Bonita, Calif., went ordinary and blew a four-stroke lead in the payoff round.

But for the miss of a four-foot putt on the 18th hole, Finsterwald would have been $2,000 richer, and he and Whitt would have been headed for San Antonio today and the Texas Open with the rest of the tournament players.

Finsterwald and Whitt posted 72-hole totals of 269, 11 under par. Casper shot a five-over-par 75, following three great rounds earlier, to tie for fourth with Johny Cleary, Hartford, Conn., and Tom NiePorte, Bronxville, N. Y., each with a 272.

Syracuse Quits NBA Cellar

By UNITED PRESS

The Syracuse Nationals, struggling desperately to make the playoffs, emerged from the Eastern Division cellar today for the first time since Nov. 16 as a result of their latest win in the National Basketball Association's hottest battle.

Paced by Adolph Schayes' 30 points, the Nationals nipped the New York Knicks at Syracuse Sunday, 102-100. to go a half-game ahead of the Knicks in the scrap for a playoff berth.

In other Sunday games, the Boston Celtics increased their Eastern Division lead to eight full games by edging second-place Philadelphia in overtime, 103-93; Fort Wayne clung to a 1½ game Western Division lead by beating Minneapolis, 113-100; and St. Louis kept pace with Fort Wayne by beating Rochester, 117-93, as big Bob Pettit scored 44 points.

North Carolina Squeezes by Again to Keep Record Intact

By JOHN GRIFFIN

How long can North Carolina get away with these hair-raising escapes?

For the second straight game, the nation's No. 1 team barely avoided disaster Saturday when it defeated Duke, 75-73, on Tommy Kearns' two free throws with 16 seconds left—and tonight the Tar Heels will be trying to make their perfect record 19-0 when they visit Virginia.

North Carolina will be only one of six major conference leaders who will see court action tonight as the cage season goes into the "showdown" stage with the big post-season tournaments less than a month away.

Indiana of the Big Ten, Kentucky of the Southeastern Conference, Bradley of the Missouri Valley, Western Kentucky of the Ohio Valley, and Hardin - Simmons of the Border Conference all will be risking their records. But two straight squeakers put the spotlight for the moment on North Carolina, with experts wondering whether recent eligibility losses have seriously undermined the Tarheels.

On Tuesday night, Carolina was forced into a double - overtime to beat Maryland, 65-61, being saved by Kearns' basket in the fading seconds of regulation time. On Saturday, Kearns, who had lost the ball several times in the final two minutes as Duke scored eight straight points to tie, 73-73, atoned by sinking his winning pair of free throws with just 16 seconds remaining. Len Rosenbluth had scored 35 points for the Tarheels to keep them in front until then.

Virginia tonight represents the first of six hurdles still standing between North Carolina, the nation's only major unbeaten team, and a perfect season. Two of them are with mighty dangerous Wake Forest, the first this Wednesday night.

The upset lightning that grazed North Carolina struck down four of the nation's highest - ranking teams Saturday.

Southern Methodist (No. 4) was upset by Texas Tech, 68-67, when it was outscored 12-0 over the last five minutes; UCLA (No. 5) had its string of 23 straight Pacific Coast Conference victories snapped by Washington, 90-74, as Doug Smart led the way with 31 points; Ohio State (No. 9) fell short in a closing rally and surrendered the Big Ten lead to Indiana, 69-59; and Illinois (No. 12), now playing without ineligible star George Bon Salle, bowed to Michigan State, 70-64.

De Marco Scores Decisive Win Over Ortega

BOSTON (UP) —Former welterweight king Tony DeMarco, who usually employs plain old - fashioned slugging to drive his opponents into the canvas, was back in the championship picture today because he used his head.

DeMarco, third-ranked contender, finally got to Mexican hat dancer Gaspar Ortega at the Boston Garden Saturday night after two split decision losses in New York, hammering out a decisive, unanimous 10-round decision.

"I used my head and didn't go wild," said the squat, swarthy DeMarco, who never has been known for his mental gymnastics in the ring before.

DeMarco said after the fight he was "ready for anybody, preferably (Carmen) Basilio." But the Boston strong boy's manager, Rip Valenti, offered that he would wait for the outcome of the Basilio-Johnny Saxton title fight Wednesday night before making any definite plans for his boy.

Folley Seeks Eighth Straight

NEW YORK (UP) — Heavyweight contender Zora Foley of Chandler, Ariz., seeks his eighth straight victory tonight in a 10-rounder with Howard Turner of Brooklyn at St. Nicholas Arena.

It will be televised by DuMont at 10:30 p.m. EST.

Folley, 25, is favored at 12-5 partly because of his comparative showings against Wayne Bethea of New York, whom each fought twice.

Folley, ranked ninth among world contenders, climbed off the canvas in the seventh round and won a split decision over 10th-ranked Bethea at Syracuse, Jan. 9. It was Folley's second split verdict over Bethea, whom he had outpointed at St. Nick's, Dec. 3.

In Turner's latest bout, Nov. 5, he lost a split decision to Bethea at St. Nick's. He had held Bethea to a draw in their first meeting, Oct. 11, 1954. Turner, 24, is unranked.

WHICH WOMAN PASSED THE N. P.* TEST?

*NINETY PERCENT

The poised, smartly-dressed woman at the left of course. You can tell at a glance . . . and that's why the Ninety-Percent Test is so important. People judge you by what they see (sometimes that's all they have to go on) and ninety percent of what they see of you is what you wear. The fresh finish of drycleaned clothes is more than an extra touch . . . like a flower in the buttonhole. It's an integral part of good grooming. The state of your clothes tells volumes about the kind of person you are. In fact, your clothes never stop talking about you.

You buy your clothes to make a good impression. As you wear them, have them drycleaned often. A smart woman takes care to keep that impression fresh.

Why do most Americans brush their teeth?

Brushing our teeth has become an everyday habit with most Americans. But did you know that it is not a habit with most of the rest of the world's people? And did you ever think why not?

Through advertising, manufacturers of dentifrices and toothbrushes have for years been urging the beauty, cleanliness and health benefits of their products. Today most of us brush our teeth as a matter of habit—and are better off for doing so.

Advertising—like the advertising you see in the pages of your newspaper—keeps telling people about new or improved products, whether it be dentifrices or dishwashers. Nowhere else in the world is advertising used so effectively and extensively as in the United States—and nowhere else is there so high a standard of living. You are the one who profits most from the good job advertising does so well.
